Hello, again, Troops - It's meeting time again. This month's rag will most likely be short, and not very informative, the reason being that this damn computer is throwing a hissy fit, and won't let me bring up my user page, so I can't access any e-mails, or any minutes of last month's meeting. It's really pissing me off, and is getting very, very close to me taking an axe to it, in which case I'll have to start printing these rags out by hand again - - not a very pleasurable situation, to say the least. You might see a newscast some night soon, showing a crazed madman chopping up a computer, and anything else that gets in his way. If that happens, you might not get any more of these rags, as I don't think I would be allowed anywhere near a computer while incarcerated.

I was asked to include in last month's rag that Mark Zaller was going to report on some recent information concerning the proposed windmill agreement. According to Mark, the project is progressing - the EDP is considering larger turbines than they originally anticipated, which means they will build less of them. They estimate building 36 total windmills. With the windmills being bigger, the agreed upon conditions will have to be adjusted. They presented a timeline for construction, which is as follows: In 2015, they will talk to landowners about their plans, and may ask them to sign leases. In 2016, roads will be constructed, and foundations will be built. The sites will be cleared of trees, and further meetings with landowners will be held. A website will be available for landowners to monitor progress and activities, which will be updated frequently. The planned start of production is July, 2017, and will last 30 years. That's all I can give you on that. You can talk to Mark, or Jack Green if you want more information on this.

From what I've heard, the donations for the proposed pavilion near the pond are going kind of slow, although we did get a couple of fifty dollar donations, and a big five hundred dollar donation from a fairly new member. I won't mention names as yet but a plaque will be made up with all donors names upon completion of said pavilion. For now, a huge thank you to all the donors so far - - and hopefully more will kick in to this endeavor. Remember - - it will improve the club's offerings to the membership, and will serve to enhance the campgrounds. It's your club, Troops - we can only benefit by this. Think about it awhile.

I'm sorry to report that Joe Neubert's mother has passed away recently. Deepest sympathies to Joe from myself, and the club. She's in a better place, Joe.

That's about it for this month, Troops. Stay safe, stay healthy, and take heart - - soon it will be Spring. See you at the meeting.

Dick Z.
