How De Doo, Troops – It’s meeting time once more in beautiful upstate New York. Time to mingle with old friends, and suck up a few beers.- - Let’s get this out of the way, right off the bat.- - We’re all paid up on club dues, except for one member, who has until the end of this month’s meeting to settle up, and remain in good standings. Failure to do this will result in said member being dropped from the club – I’m hoping that doesn’t happen. ‘Nuff said about that.

About those windmills - - Jack Green attended a meeting in Fredonia. EDP Renewables said they won’t “deal with the lease until construction starts”, which is scheduled to begin in May, 2017. We have also received unofficial information that EDP does not wish to place anything on our property. Guess we’ll wait and see how that turns out.

The April work party consisted of the following: - Spring clean-up of the campgrounds, some trees were cleared, and some logs were cut and piled up - to be cut and split at the September work party. The mud room was re-stocked. The old, junky truck was disposed of, and several dump runs were made ; debris behind the shelter was cleaned up, the roof was cleared of leaves and sticks, and the lower field was mowed. Joe Nagy marked some areas for future drainage work to be done.

Mark Zaller informed me that this year’s Hunter Safety Seminar is scheduled for September 11th, at the club’s campgrounds.

I have up-dated the club’s membership list, and I’ll have some copies available at the meeting. For those of you with e-mail addresses, I’m sending you one along with this rag. Now, it remains to be seen just who has moved recently, or who will be moving shortly. It happens every time a new list is made up - - I just can’t win. (Like Hillary, I hope.)

That just about covers things for this month, Troops - -No, wait !! (I almost forgot this) - - “Welcome to the club” to Jason Barczykowski, of Buffalo. Hope you enjoy the club, and it’s amenities, Jason – Glad to have ya’ join us. - - -Okay, now I’m done. Stay safe, stay healthy, and stay out of trouble, Troops – see ya’ Thursday.
